California Wholesalers are a decades long partner of the Teamsters, creating quality jobs and benefiting the California economy.

The strong partnership between California wholesalers and organized labor has existed for many decades. In fact, the alcoholic beverage wholesale distribution industry has some of the highest union density of any industry in the country.

These highly sought after jobs cover all segments of the alcohol distribution chain and range from truck drivers to warehouse workers and sales and logistics efforts.

Stable, quality, union jobs provided by California Distributors

The wine and spirits distributors in California have been our partners for decades, providing very high quality and well-paying jobs for our members, including strong benefits. Changing California's well regulated, successful distribution system to allow distillers to ship spirits directly to consumers will do only one thing: strengthen large out of state companies at the expense of California jobs.
